Spring 2014 continues to roll through SW North Dakota. Moisture is not an issue so far this year. Hopefully, we can get a good week or two of solid running to get some acres covered. Still plenty of time for canola and corn with the cooler soil temperatures. Soybeans, too. XLR-Rate liquid starter fertilizer will outshine a conventional product like 10-34-0 and some of the other polys out there....And believe it or not, Alliance Ag is supplying local farmers with an above quality product at a better price per acre than sub standard liquid fertilizers.

Make sure you give us a call today to get a semi load to the farm or delivery from one of our locations.

Thanks for choosing Alliance Ag Cooperative!!
